As part of its education and outreach mission, GPO's Library Services and Content Management has presented several programs on topics related to the Federal Depository Library Program through OPAL, a Web conferencing service. Now LSCM is opening up its OPAL room to members of the depository library community who would like to present additional educational and training sessions for the benefit of the community.

Programs can be live or pre-recorded and should focus on a specific aspect of U.S. Government information, Federal Depository Library Program issues, or depository library operations and management. GPO will review proposals for suitability. Approved presentations will be recorded and are subject to further GPO review before posting to the GPO OPAL Archive .

To submit a proposal, complete the Online Educational Program Proposal Form . More information on OPAL (Online Programming for All Libraries) is available on their Web site .
